PHOTOSYNTHESIS
Dr. Suraj D. Umdale
Assistant Professor
Department of Botany,
Kannur University, Kannur, Kerala, India.

Photosynthesis

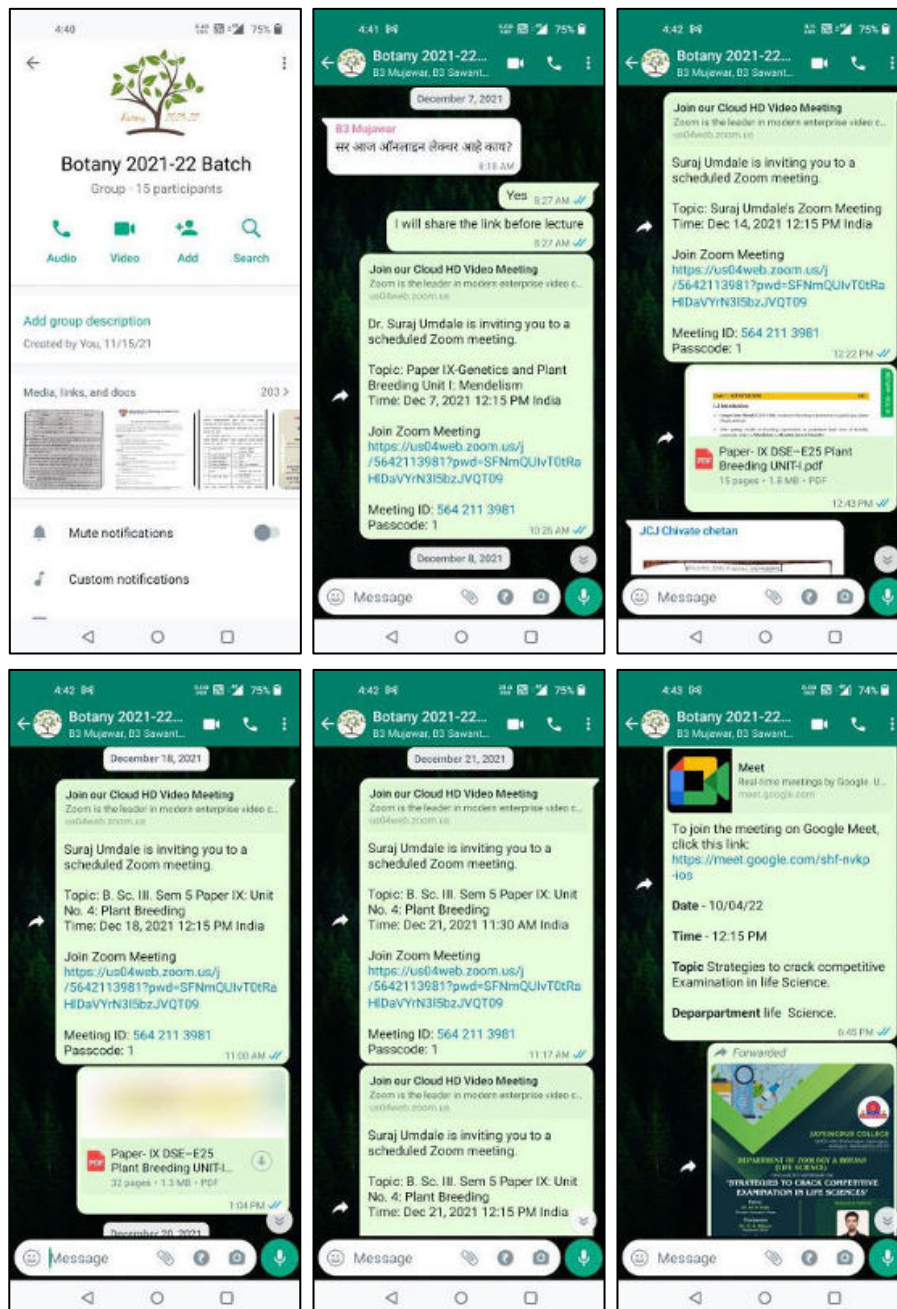

Photosynthesis is the process by which green plants and other organisms use light energy to synthesize organic compounds from carbon dioxide and water. The process occurs in the chloroplasts of plants and in the cytoplasm of some bacteria and algae.

Light Reaction: Light energy is captured by chlorophyll and used to split water into oxygen and hydrogen. The hydrogen is used to reduce NADP+ to NADPH.

Dark Reaction: NADPH and ATP from the light reaction are used to reduce carbon dioxide to glucose. This process is also known as the Calvin cycle.

Factors Affecting Photosynthesis: Light intensity, carbon dioxide concentration, temperature, and water availability.
